Re: Corrections Consolidation Legislation

I want to thank all of you for the service you perform for West Virginia. I am sure you are like the commissioners in my home county of Wood. They work seven days a week meeting, protecting, and preserving the rights of the citizens they took an oath to serve.

I am grateful for the support so many of you have shown for our plan to strengthen, improve and modernize West Virginia's corrections system. The Justice Administration inherited significant problems, and corrections was one of those problem areas. We faced high vacancies, low morale, and deteriorating facilities. As you can fully understand, a short-term fix is not the answer. We need – and have found - a long-term strategy for success.

First, let me dispel several misunderstandings.

- The pending consolidation legislation absolutely does not increase the per diem rate for housing inmates in jails.

The Senate and House versions instead include language that will cap or permanently limit the per diem in State Code. The House version has a $48.50 cap, but that will be amended to the current $48.25. The cap in the Senate version is $55, and we have asked that it be amended to the current level as well.

The consolidation promises a stable per diem rate by having it calculated by the State Budget Office and confirmed by the Regional Jail Authority Board.

Consider this: 10 years ago, the per diem was $48.50; however, for the past four years the per diem has been $48.25.

- Also incorrect is the notion that counties will end up paying for DOC expenses through the RJA per diem.

In fact, consolidation will lower RJA's operational costs by allowing DOC to assist with an array of programs and services:

- Accounting
 - Accreditation
 - Administration
 - Adult Programs
 - Electronic Monitoring
 - Fugitive Operations
 - Human Resources and Payroll
 - Internal Investigations
 - K9 Units
 - Legal Services
 - Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) Compliance
 - Procurement
 - Radio Communications
 - Recruiting
 - Records and Interstate Compact
 - Re-entry Programs
 - Religious Services
 - Research and Technology
 - Safety
 - Threat Assessments
 - Victim services
- Another inaccuracy involves the future of the $9 million in reserves that RJA must maintain while it still owes on its construction bonds.

I cannot stress enough that these reserves are legally required and are in no way a "surplus" as some have alleged.

We are awaiting a response from your association on how to use those funds at the conclusion of payment to place that in this legislation.

We would recommend, however, that the funds address much-needed capital improvements for the RJA facilities.

- We are thrilled that Governor Justice has championed pay raises for our correctional staff. They are as desperately needed as they are deserved by our brave men and women. However, some have questioned the effect of those raises on the per diem.

The answer: As RJA is a special revenue agency that receives no funding from the state budget, the pay increase of $6,000 over three years would increase operational costs by $2.5 million per year or $1.43 per diem increase and $7.5 million over the 3 years or $4.29 per diem after 3 years. We fully realize that this would be a burden on the counties.

Therefore, to increase wages without the burden to the counties, the consolidation plan will increase RJA revenues by an estimated $2.7 million by hiking both the federal and DOC per diem rates. The resulting reduction in mandatory overtime, meanwhile, will yield additional funding for the raises.

How can we promise that our approach toward consolidation will save the counties money? Because it already has – more than $1.1 million so far and counting.

The Department of Military Affairs and Public Safety, with extensive assistance from the Governor's Office, has conducted considerable research to develop this plan to make West Virginia Corrections more responsive and cost-efficient. We worked with federal and state correctional agencies across the country and experts in the fields of medical, mental health, food, construction, and many other services. The resulting proposal promises a vast improvement of West Virginia Corrections through better management, more effective oversight, a stable budget, and more efficient services.

Every aspect of the three correctional agencies was evaluated. Simply stated, with three separate agencies we had three of every service a government agency would need. Our initial effort focused on legal fees. We have reduced salary and benefit costs by $172,000 a year by reshaping the legal staffs of the three correctional agencies into a unified legal services team. This has yielded an additional annual savings of $251,000 through increased reliance on in-house counsel.

We then turned to the separate headquarters of each correctional agency – and the resulting rental costs. We closed the Regional Jail Authority (RJA) office and moved those employees to the Division of Corrections (DOC), saving $280,000 annually and not counting utilities. As a result of this collaboration, DOC provided over 15,000 man-hours of services to RJA worth an estimated $281,083. Overall, these steps have reduced the operational costs of RJA $1.1 million. I submit to you that this savings, while substantial is merely the “fruit of the low hanging tree.”

Our research extended across the United States but also enlisted Marshall University and West Virginia University. We had calculated that during the years 2014, 2015, and 2016 our three corrections agencies spent over $126 million on medical, dental, and mental health services. The research indicates that by combining these three professional services contracts, we can save significant funds for the state and therefore the counties. We have also conducted similar research regarding food services and construction, maintenance and repair contracts, and it also shows sizeable savings from joint bidding.

I could write page after page telling you about the benefits to the counties, but as a former Sheriff let me highlight one benefit from consolidation that will save your counties money, time and other resources. Consolidation would allow for the designation of holding cells at what are currently state prisons. This would help state, county and local law enforcement agencies reduce the time their personnel spend transporting an arrestee to a jail.

- Example: in some parts of McDowell County, an officer must drive two hours and 15 minutes one-way to drop off an arrestee at Southwestern Regional Jail.
 - That arrest would prevent that officer from responding to calls for service for nearly 5 hours.
 - The consolidation plan will instead allow that officer to transport the arrestee to a much closer holding cell.
 - We would then transport that arrestee to a more appropriate facility.
 - This will put law enforcement officers back on the street more quickly after they make an arrest.

Thank you for taking time to read this memorandum. If you have any questions please call me 24/7 at 304-553-6826.
